

Mr Patrick Crossley, MA, MEd, BTh, FRSA

Patrick has been Assistant Head Academic at Victoria College since September 2018 and, working with the Headmaster and Deputy Headmaster, has responsibility for the academic direction of the College. On a day to day basis, as well as teaching Geography and RE, he works closely with the Senior Teachers, the Heads of Department and Academic Heads of Year to ensure high quality learning that is engaging and dynamic. At the moment, Patrick is also leading the school's Curriculum Review, designed to ensure that what happens in the classroom at Victoria College remains suitable for preparing our students to meet and surpass their potential and make them resilient young men able to make their way in the world.

Having worked in the independent sector for over 10 years, Patrick is a passionate believer in the limitless potential of young people and in values based education. He holds a MA (Hons) degree in Geography and BTh in Theology degree, both from the University of Cambridge, as well as a Masters degree in Educational Leadership from the University of Buckingham. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and currently studying for an EdD Practitioner Doctorate, also from the University of Buckingham.

Away from school, Patrick is an avid rugby fan, winning two Blues for Cambridge in the Varsity Match at Twickenham as well as earning several caps for England Students. He is also an occasional cricketer, has pretensions of being a guitarist and is slowly exploring the island's many bays sea swimming.
