

Dr Gareth Hughes, PhD, MPhil (Cantab), MSc,
B.A. (Hons) (Oxon), PCGE

Gareth joined Victoria College in September 2018 as Deputy Headmaster. In addition to deputising for the Headmaster, Gareth's role focuses on both the wide range of tasks associated with the day-to-day running of the College, and working with staff, governors, students, parents and the wider island community to develop the College's academic, pastoral and co-curricular for the students now and in the future. He also teaches Geography.

Gareth started teaching in 2008 after time spent in academia and overseas work. This is his second senior leadership role after working as Deputy Head Academic at Shiplake College for two years, and before that spent eight years at Radley College, six of them as Head of Geography. He holds a PhD and MPhil in Environmental Risk from the University of Cambridge, and an MSc in Environmental Policy and Bachelor of Arts (Hons) in Geography from the University of Oxford.

Gareth lives with his wife, two children and a manic working cocker spaniel called Willow. In his spare time Gareth spends as much time as he can outdoors, especially on the pursuits of cycling, surfing, running and swimming. He also enjoys playing the guitar, keeping up with current affairs and reading.
